AUSTIN BEATEN IN NINTH INNING OF CONTEST THAT FURNISHED NECESSARY THRILLS FOR A PERFECT DAY—PAUL DENNING STAR WITH THE STICK—TOMMIE CLARK HAD PLENTY OF STEAM.

Smethport opened the 1920 season with a one-run victory over Austin that furnished a large crowd of spectators with amusement that has put them on edge for more. Next Sunday a fast Bradford team will visit our midst—perhaps not midst as the fair grounds are sort of on the left side—at any rate they will be here with bells on and a game the fans will love should be the result.

Paul Denning opened the season for Smethport against Austin by slamming the first ball pitched for two bases. Louie Hull followed with a single and Denning scored the first run of the game. In the third inning Paul duplicated the trick as did Louie while a difference of opinion among Austin fielders let Howard Denning on and scored Paul and Tommie, while a solid smash from McGowan's bat later scored H. Denning. With four runs to their credit the Smethport players were blanked from the third to the ninth inning.

Austin made two runs in the sixth on a combination of two errors, two outs and a hit. They earned another in the eighth on two hits and a stolen base. Austin tied the score in the ninth on three errors. Clark pitched himself out of a bad hole in this inning errors behind him having allowed one run and filled the bases.

In the ninth for Smethport, with two out Paul Denning, Louie Hull and Howard Denning singled in succession and Paul romped home with the winning run.

Tommie Clark had plenty of steam and eleven times the visitors fanned the air in vain attempts to locate his "shimmy" ball. Miller for Austin was doing considerable execution himself and fanned nine hopeful hitsmiths. Paul Denning carried of the batting honors with four hits out of five times up. The score follows.

AFFAIRS DURING COMMENCEMENT CLASS OF 1920

The class day exercises of the class of 1920 were held in the Lyceum on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were attended by a large number of friends and relatives of the members of the class.

The program was an interesting one and evoked much mirth on the part of the students and those most closely associated with the Seniors.

The opening number was a brief address of welcome given by the President, Herbert Larson and this was followed by a vocal solo by Mr. Larson.

Leigh Smith then read the class history, which detailed the struggles and pleasures of the past four years and was pronounced by the audience to be one of the best class histories ever heard in Smethport.

The class artist, Lucile Hovis, gave each member of the class a portrait of himself, accompanied by a cute little explanatory rhyme.

Charles Kelly, as poet, recited a clever poem dealing with the fads, failings and foibles of his classmates, after which a piano duet was rendered by the Misses Marian Carlson and Lucile Hovis.

The donor, Lucy Whelan, presented a gift to each and the applause that greeted each presentation proved the appropriateness of the selection.

Following the time honored customs, the next number was "Advice to the Juniors." This was given by Ruth Haven who told the Juniors how very much they lacked of being perfect and then turned over the shovel and pen to Mortimer Bell who is the Junior representative received them and made suitable response to the advice received.

Clarence Daly as class growler demonstrated his ability to growl so successfully that some of the audience took his complaints to be literally true.

The next number was the prophecy by Lillian Williams, who learned from an old Greek oracle the future of her classmates at a date thirty years hence, and found them occupying varying positions from the presidency down to ordinary life.

Eliose Tanner read the last will and testament of the class, disposing of their worldly effects and privileges and the concluding numbers was a vocal duet by Elberta Natello and Herbert Larson.

The annual commencement exercises were held at the Lyceum on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock and were of unusual excellence. The opening number "Juno Song," by the High School chorus was very pleasing and was followed by the invocation by Rev. W. E. Van Dyke.

A fine oration on "Ideal Citizenship" was delivered by Gladys Hackett, who holds second place in the class. Miss Hackett is one of the finest type of citizen and condemned the type altogether too common today, the agitator and disturber.

The Girls' chorus then delighted the audience by the manner in which they sang "When Life is Brightest" and Marian Carlson who was third in the class spoke on "The Power of Enthusiasm." Miss Carlson showed how powerful a factor enthusiasm is in the success of all undertaking and how it has been possessed by successful men and women of all ages and conditions.

Principal C. B. Renn then introduced Hon. Emerson Collins of Williamsport, who delivered a most eloquent and inspiring address urging the young people on to higher planes and endeavors and speaking of the great value of the public school as a factor for the uplifting of the community. He urged his audience to use every effort to maintain right standards of living and true Americanism and not to drift into lives of ease and indolence.

The Girls' Glee Club, composed of nine young ladies sang "In Spain" most effectively after which the diplomas were presented by Mr. E. A. Studholme, president of the Board of Education, who spoke briefly of the excellence of our school and the keen interest felt in it by the board whom he represented as well as by every citizen.

Diplomas were presented to John Apple, Edith Axelson, Dwight Butzer, Marian Carlson, Crystal Cunningham, Clarence Daly, Alice Ferman, Gladys Hackett, Jessie Haven, Ruth Haven, Lucile Hovis, Clara Hungiville, Charles Kelly, Herbert Larson, Robert McCarthy, Elberta Natello, Hattie Shoofar, Leigh Smith, Eliese Tanner, Lucy Whelan and Lillian Williams.

The valedictory and oration "Necessity of Concentration" was given by Jessie Haven who ranks first in the class. Miss Haven gave a very clear idea of the necessity of concentration if one expects to succeed in his work and then spoke the farewell on behalf of the class.

The Girls' chorus sang the "Swing Song" and the Rev. Arthur Gregson pronounced the benediction.

Great credit is due Mrs. E. E. Bouton for the excellent musical numbers which added so greatly to the program and there is universal regret among teachers and pupils alike because Mrs. Bouton has declined a reappointment as music teacher for the next year.

FOUR VALUABLE SHEEP KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Last Sunday four valuable sheep belonging to E. W. Jones were killed by lightning at his farm near the west line of the borough. The sheep killed included his prize buck, two full-blooded Hampshire ewes and a grade sheep, the lot being valued at fully $300, on which there was no insurance. Three three-weeks-old lambs were left orphans and are being raised as bottle babies. Mr. Jones is of the opinion that he is having more than his share of hard luck, with the loss of stock from disease and lightning and the fact that the barn on the farm was ruined by a cyclone two years ago.

DIED OF DIPHTHERIA

Willa Rees, aged seven years daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rees of Coryville, died Monday morning of diphtheria. Services were held in the yard at the home Tuesday afternoon and burial was in Frisbee cemetery. Mr. Rees and little son, Herbert, are both ill with diphtheria.

YOUNG KELLY ESCAPED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Leo Kelly, the baby-killer, is again in the limelight. This time he escaped from the county jail in Smethport and made a bee-line for his home town, where, however, through the keen eyes of Luke Howe, son of Chief of Police Howe, his plans came to naught, for he was caught and placed in the city lock-up, where he is in custody at the present writing. Kelly was adjudged insane last week and is to be taken to the state hospital at Fairview. He made his escape from the county jail Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, while the prisoners were attending services in the jail chapel. His story goes that one of the prisoners pointed to a door that had been left open and told him to beat it. Of course, this story might all be imagination, but the fact that he escaped was not. Kelly went to his cell, got together his belongings and started for home. He walked several miles out of Smethport, boarded a bus for this city and changed to a street car at East Bradford. Luke Howe happened to be on the same car and recognized him. He watched Kelly until the car reached Main and High streets, where he summoned Patrolman Fairbanks who was there on duty. He called the officer who boarded the car, placed Kelly under arrest and took him to the police station.

Kelly's absence was not discovered at the county jail until services were over, which gave the fugitive an hour's start. He was traced about four miles out of Smethport, but there the trail was lost. It was naturally believed that he would go home and this deduction was correct. With the idea in mind that he might be hiding for the night searchers visited all along the route Kelly had taken and Sheriff Robinson drove to this city.

As soon as the murderer's flight was discovered at the county jail, word was sent to the Bradford police department, which at once spread a dragnet all about the city. One patrolman was stationed near the home of Kelly's parents, while Chief Howe made trips to various points in his car during the entire evening. It was 11:30 o'clock when Luke Howe, who knew nothing of the affair, happened to see Kelly on the street car and recognized him, having seen him when he was incarcerated for murder in the city lock-up at the time of the murder. When Kelly's mother visited him in the county jail recently she gave him some money, while was what he used Monday for his bus and car fare.

Tuesday afternoon County Detective J. J. Allison escorted Kelly in the former's car back to Smethport, where the would be runaway was again placed in jail.—Star-Record.

CONOPUS CLUB

Regular weekly meeting of Smethport Conopus Club held at the Grand Central Monday, June 14.

Invocation delivered by Rev. Gregson.

Attendance prize, consisting of a box of cigars, won by Rev. W. E. Van Dyke, given by J. S. Hull.

Minutes of previous meeting read by the secretary.

P. S. Crossman, member of the Committee on Milk Station, reported that the survey was under way. It would not only consist of the amount of milk which the farmers are now producing, but also an estimate of what would produce providing there was a suitable way of disposing of the products. It is proposed to work out in a co-operative way of some way of disposing of the milk supply of the community around Smethport.

Fred Hungiville, member of the Committee on Good Roads, reported that the work on Minard Hill Run Road was still under way.

T. H. Morrison, chairman of the Shamrock R. R. crossing, reported that he had been informed by the railroad that the signals to be erected have been ordered.

The secretary read a letter from Allen S. Browne of the Buffalo Conopus office, stating that they could furnish a speaker for the week of June 27.

Moved by Ross K. Knapp, seconded by M. M. Pomeroy, that the secretary inform Mr. Browne that the club would prefer a speaker on other lines of thought than the labor question.

Main Street Store Building Was Damaged

BUILDING ON MAIN STREET OWNED BY J. C. GALLUP OF WOODBURY, N. J., DAMAGED TO THE EXTENT OF SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Fire discovered at 5:30 yesterday morning by T. J. Young who at once turned in an alarm damaged the two-story wooden structure on Main street, owned by J. C. Gallup of Woodbury, N. J., a former postmaster of Smethport, to the extent of several thousand dollars, and also caused a loss to Leo J. Samson who occupied one of the store rooms on the first floor of close to a thousand dollars on which there is $200 insurance. Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connor who had just moved into the living rooms on the second floor had nearly all their household goods destroyed or damaged by fire and water. It is understood that their insurance of $200 will not nearly cover their loss.

The origin of the fire is more or less of a mystery, although it is reasonably sure that it started in the tailor shop. Mr. Samson is positive that he left no fire upon leaving his work at 6 o'clock, Tuesday night, and was not in the place during the evening.

Several patrons who had clothing in the shop for pressing and repairing are heavy losers, notably District Attorney E. G. Potter, who lost several suits of clothes, including a dress suit. Hon. James McKean was also the loser to the extent of a suit of clothing and several others whose names were not learned.

The building was insured for $1,000.

The prompt response of the firemen and fast work saved a destructive conflagration as the structure is in the center of a group of wooden buildings.

TRIED TO STEAL AN AUTOMOBILE

It has transpired that Leo Kelly, the baby murderer, who escaped from the county jail last Sunday and was recaptured in Bradford, tried to make away with an automobile belonging to John B. Eastman, register of wills, which was standing in front of the house on the farm which Mr. Eastman owns in Farmers Valley. Kelly could not start the car but he rummaged through the contents and found the owner's coat and abstracted his watch therefrom. Later the watch was recovered after Kelly had been brought back to jail, but its services as a timepiece are over as Kelly had tampered with the works until he put them out of commission.

FARMERS GOING TO STATE COLLEGE

Everyone should supply themselves with a picnic lunch, which we will plan to eat at some good farm, where some particular line of farming can be studied.

The route will be that of Coudersport, Sweden Valley, over Jersey Shore Turnpike, to Lock Haven, up through the fertile Limestone Valley to Bellfont and State College. To avoid delays everyone should be supplied with either an extra tire or an inner tube as we plan on travelling in a group.

APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN

An appeal will be taken in the case of the five men fined $100 each, in court at Smethport, Tuesday, on a charge of violating an injunction restraining them from interfering with employes of the United States and Cuban Allied Engineering Corporation.

Bradford local of the International Moulders' Union voted Tuesday evening to direct an appeal from the court's decision. It is expected that the Machinists' union will take similar action at its meeting Wednesday evening.

The five men found guilty and fined yesterday were Henry Tuttle, Fred Wendy, O. Bosworth, John Desantes and Lewis Kelly, all of Bradford, Stephen Kopp and John McCutcheon, tried on the same charge, were discharged by the court. In the case of Kopp, the court held there was insufficient evidence of violation of the injunction, and in McCutcheon's case, there was a possibility of the defendant not having been properly notified of the restraining order.

Rufus H. Stone and Gallup and Potter were the attorneys for the defendants. Andrew Gibillan of Buffalo, general counsel for the International Moulders' Union and also the International Machinists, attended the trial, and sat at the defense counsel's table. He did not participate in the trial, however. The attorneys for the plaintiff company were John E. Mullin of Kane, Wilson and Fitzgibbon and John P. Melvin of Bradford.

The trial was an outgrowth of the Cuban Allied strike. Employes of the company testified that they had been accosted and threatened by the defendants. Police Chief John Howe, Captain Harry Solt and Patrolman W. B. Benedict, subpoenaed as witnesses for the defense, all swore that no complaint ever had been made to the police as to the alleged activities of the defendants either by the plaintiff company or by the employes alleged to have been threatened.

The defendants were given until noon today to pay their fines.

CAMPING AT CUBA LAKE

A majority of the members of the graduating class of Smethport High School, with one of their teachers, Miss Carrie A. Day, departed yesterday morning for Cuba Lake, where they will enjoy an outing until Sunday. A cottage has been secured, the girls and the boys will occupy tents.

PORT ALLEGANY

After a most harmonious session the Republican convention Friday nominated Warren S. Harding of Ohio as its candidate for President of the United States and Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts as Vice President. It is difficult to conceive a stronger ticket under conditions prevailing in the United States today. It is absolutely disconcerting to the Democratic opposition whose faint hearted effort to pick faults in the candidates and the manner in which they received nomination is actually absurd to read. It is as though the National Convention in Chicago had convened to name the next President and Vice President of the United States as there are few things under the sun more sure than that the above named gentlemen will fill the highest positions within the gift of the nation. The very weakness of the stories which the Democratic publicity men are putting on the wires is the most glaring evidence of the fact that defeat stares them in the face—is expected as inevitable. A prominent McKean County Democrat who has held a high position within his party's gift told the MINER that unless something happened that now seems beyond the bounds of possibility, his party was absolutely sure of defeat in November. He based his opinion on the fact that it seemed impossible at this time to consolidate the warring factions and consolidate the official strength which the Democratic party possesses at this time after 8 years of ruling, upon a candidate who would be agreeable to the Democratic party as a body.

Chicago, June 14.—Senator Harding is going to be a popular candidate.

The newspapermen of the country agreed upon that at five minutes of 10 on the night he was nominated. Or, if that statement seems too broad and inclusive, put it this way—a hundred newspaper reporters from Chicago, New York, Washington, Buffalo and all the lesser cities down to Vincennes, Ind., agreed in that opinion two minutes after they met him—most of them for the first time.

But, all things in order. Senator Harding received the news of his nomination in the Republican national committee headquarters, a big barn of a room on the second floor of the Coliseum, in which he faintly could hear the cheering of the delegates and the galleries. Mrs. Harding, a gracious and handsome woman, was in the convention hall. As soon as the roll call showed her husband had more than the necessary 493 votes, she hurried to join the senator.

Together they slipped out of the building, skillfully and expeditiously. "Sneaked" is the word one reporter used.

Of course, the chase for the senator began immediately. Everyone wanted an interview, but the man who had leaped from a position of only modest fame to a pinnacle of international prominence within the space of a roll call, say, half an hour, was not to be found.

Persistence finally won the informatio nthat the senator would see newspapermen at 9 o'clock at the Hotel La Salle. He would have nothing to say, but would consent to be looked at and to thank the "boys" for their courtesies.

All this on the word of Harry Daugherty, his campaign manager.

There was a "canned" statement of two or three lines. Senatpr Harding appreciated the great honor and was not unmindful of the responsibilities it entailed. That was all.

At odd times he worked in the village printing office, in time becoming an expert typesetter and later a linotype operator. He is a practical pressman and a job printer, and as a "make up man" is said to have few equals. The luck piece he has carried as a Senator is the old printer's rule he used when he was sticking type.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

"To safeguard America first,
"To stabilize America first,
"To prosper America first,
"To think of America first,
"To exault America first,
"To live for and revere America first."

There you have the platform of Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican dominee for President, as expressed by him recently before the Ohio Society of New York. He stands for the old-fashioned faith of America, a faith that has been more or less perverted by the present administration.

The Chicago convention made a wise choice in naming Senator Harding. For he meets fully every requirement of the time. If he is not as well known as some of the other candidates who were considered, his record of public service is no less distinguished. He has proved himself a man of fine ability and large capacity.

The career of the Republican nominee is characteristically American. He has won his way by dint of hard work, backed by a variety of fine and worthy elements. His rise in politics has been rapid. He first served in the Ohio legislature, then had a term as lieutenant governor. From that office he was elected a United States senator.

He is regarded as one of the Senate leaders, a forceful, earnest man. His opinions are sound. He has shown a character seasoned with clear understanding, firm beliefs and purposes, and courage. He has the faith of his associates. So he has been a useful senator and one of wide influence. His record is such as justifies his elevation to the post of chief executive of the nation.

No fitter running mate for Senator Harding could have been found than Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts. Few public men of today have shown a finer combination of right feeling and clear thinking than has the Bay State executive. He is a man of achievement. He showed his mettle when the police of Boston went on strike. He met that situation with courage and determination. On the way in which he met this test he was re-elected governor by a large majority.

No man in public life in America has so happy a gift for pithy expression as Governor Coolidge. Some measure of the man may be had from this excerpt from a campaign speech of his.

"In Massachusetts we are citizens before we are partisans. The good name of the commonwealth is of more moment to us than party success."

And this:

"The attempt to appeal to class prejudice has failed. The men of Massachusetts are not labor men, or policemen, or union men, or poor men, or any other class of men first; they are Americans first."

Harding and Coolidge—it is a ticket that merits the fullest confidence of the people. They have dwelt close to men and understand their problems and perplexities. They have sober and sensible views of life tinged with no shade of doubt or distrust. They are men who can be trusted to look squarely at their duty and proceed to its discharge with high courage and understanding sympathy with all departments of government. They believe in team play and a square deal. Their nomination insures Republican success.—Buffalo News.

50 YEAR OLD CACHE FOUND

RECALLS TRAGEDY OF ARCTIC

Food and Clothing Found to Be Almost in as Good Condition as When Placed There by McClintock in 1853.

New York.—Of interest to all who have heard the call of the North and the lure of exploration is the announcement that Vilhjalmur Stefansson found the abandoned cache of Sir Leopold McClintock, commander of the Intrepid, in the Arctic after a lapse of more than half a century. It was Sir Leopold McClintock, in command of the ship Intrepid, who found traces of the voyage of that unfortunate explorer Sir John Franklin. He built a cache on Melville island, presumably between 1850 and 1854, when in quest of tidings of Sir John Franklin and the members of his ill-fated expedition in the Arctic.

Located by Stefansson.

The McClintock cache was located by Stefansson, who reports that he found everything in almost as good condition as when placed there in 1853. Articles of clothing he found particularly well preserved and much better in quality than the clothing of today, and the food and supplies left in the Arctic cache by Commander McClintock and his men also were well preserved, despite the severe weather known to prevail in the Arctic regions.

Documents and a list of the contents of a cache built in the far North by Commander McClintock and other data also were found by Capt. Joseph E. Bernier, in command of the "Arctic" expedition of 1908-1909. A tablet erected on Dealy Island by Captain Kellett and Commander McClintock in 1852-1853, whose vessels were lost, also was found by Captain Bernier and re-erected, with his own tablet, on Parry's Rock, commemorating the annexing of the Arctic archipelago in 1909. On the tablet found by Captain Bernier were the names of the ships navigated by the explorers—"H. M. S. Resolute, Henry Kellett, Esq., C. B., H. M. S. V. Intrepid, F. L. McClintock, Esq., Comm. Wintered 1852-1853, S. 82 E. (true). Door of Depot House (with direction given). Record will be found in house."

"Lieutenant McClintock," says Captain Bernier, who was commander of the Intrepid and second in command to Captain Kellett, early showed his great activity by making sledge journeys of a hazardous nature across Melville Island from the locality in which the Resolute and Intrepid were frozen in near Dealy Island. The tracings made by McClintock around the shores of Melville Island and Prince Patrick Island, on foot, added many hundreds of miles to the coast surveyed under Belcher and Kellett. The claims established by him between 1852 and 1854 are mentioned in his reports with the papers found at Dealy Island.

Built Half Century Ago.

It is probably one of these cairns that was discovered by Stefansson and built by McClintock more than half a century ago.

Continuing, Captain Bernier says of McClintock: "His subsequent career in navigating the waters in Lady Franklin's yacht Fox of Peel sound, Regent inlet, Bellot strait, King William Island and around Montreal Island and Boothia peninsula are well-known. His brilliant achievements and discovery of definite information regarding the fate of Franklin point to him as the most fortunate of all voyagers who pursued the most remarkable search known in the history of navigation."

One of the documents left by McClintock in a copper tube and under a pile of rocks was found by Captain Bernier. Another was found outside of Kellett's depot, probably disturbed from its resting place by a polar bear, for it bore the marks of the paw of an animal of considerable size. Much of the information found in these documents was utilized by Captain Bernier while cruising through northern seas in the Arctic.

One Shot Killed Both.

Madison, Wis.—Of several deaths from bullets of deer hunters, one under unusual conditions has been reported to the conservation commission. It is that of Earl Darling, Medford, killed north of Merrill by a bullet which passed through the body of a deer. Mr. Darling was hunting with a companion. Spying a doe he shot. The animal, untouched, started toward him and he cried to his partner to shout as it passed. The bullet went entirely through the body of the deer and the body of the man, killing both instantly.

Village of Old Folks.

London.—Three neighbors, whose ages totaled 250 years, died within a week at Burton-on-Trent. They were Mrs. Vernall, aged 80, who leaves thirty-two descendants; Mrs. Coulton, 87, and John Burton, 77. Three golden weddings were recently celebrated in the village.

PIES and PASTRIES

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

CHEER up! There is no further reason for worrying about table variety. The new Royal Cook Book gives new suggestions for every meal every day. The book is so full of surprises that it will never be another dull meal in the home. Here are a few suggestions from the new Royal Cook Book.

Plain Pastry

This recipe is for one large pie with top and bottom crust

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
⅔ cup shortening
cold water

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder; add shortening and rub in very lightly with tips of fingers (the less it is handled the better the paste will be). Add cold water very slowly, enough to hold dough together (do not work or knead dough). Divide in halves; roll out one part thin on floured board and use for bottom crust. After pie is filled roll out other part for top.

Rich Pastry

2 cups pastry flour
½ teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
cold water

Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add one-half shortening and rub in lightly with fingers; add water slowly, enough of cold to roll out. Divide in halves; roll out one half thin; put on in small pieces half remaining shortening; fold upper and lower edges in to center; [illegible] roll out thin and line pie plate. Repeat with other half for top crust.

Apple Pie

1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
4 apples, or 1 quart sliced apples
6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon milk

Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add shortening and rub in very lightly; add just enough cold water to hold dough together. Roll half out on floured board, line bottom of pie plate; fill in apples, which have been washed, pared and cut into thin slices; sprinkle with sugar; flavor with cinnamon or nutmeg; wet edges of crust with cold water; roll out remainder of pastry; cover pie, pressing edges tightly together and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes.

TORNADO AGAIN BRINGS SALVATION ARMY DOUGHNUTS INTO ASCENDANCY

A forge pressed into service in the wake of the southern tornado. (Below) Salvation Army workers amid the ruins of La Grange, Ga.

The achievement of the Salvation Army in being the first relief organization on the job in many of the Georgia and Alabama towns struck by the tornado March 28 was far from setting a precedent. In previous disasters it has often succeeded in reaching the smitten territory immediately and has assumed the leadership in rescue and relief work.

The Army had charge of the food supply in the tidal disaster at Corpus Christi, Tex., in 1919, and took the lead in all the work following the explosion at Halifax, Nova Scotia, during the war, while in the Dayton flood of 1913 Army workers in Columbus and other Ohio towns were among the first to get food to the marooned. Relief expeditions were sent to Galveston and San Francisco, while the workers stationed in both these places did yeoman service. One hundred and forty Salvationists lost their lives when the Empress of Ireland sank in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1914. Testimony of other passengers shows that this high mortality was caused by the officers voluntarily giving their life belts to others.

The work done after the March tornado in the South has received high praise from the authorities in the cities helped because of its promptness and effectiveness. The Salvationists' supplies of food, clothing and bedding filled a crying want. Forges were used for stoves, and the doughnut came into its own again amid such scenes of destruction as saw its ascendancy in France.

Work such as this is supported from the Home Service fund which makes possible all the Army's activities in America and for which the organization will make an appeal for $10,000,000 from May 10 to 20.

WATER LILIES FOR FOOD

Seeds and Tubers Make Good Stew With Meat.

Dr. M. G. Gilmore Learns From Indians of Valuable Food Supply Left Untouched.

Bismarck, N. D.—Tons of food lie peacefully undisturbed in the hundreds of acres of water lilies through out the United States, according to Dr Melvin G. Gilmore, curator of the North Dakota Historical society, who is engaged in research work covering North America to determine the possibilities of native products.

As a result of the first stage of his inquiry, findings of which were published recently in the thirty-third annual report of the American bureau of ethnology, Dr. Gilmore declares development of America's wild plant life has been practically nil.

"In the 300 years that the white man has dominated the western hemisphere," the scientist asserts, "he has not reduced to cultivation from wild stock a single natural species except to bring under semi-domestication the pecan and certain grapes of the east."

In connection with this assertion, Dr. Gilmore quotes the United States crop report for 1916 as giving a value of $3,000,000 to crops of this country alone grown from plants first brought under cultivation by the Indians.

He sees the greatest possibilities for advancement in this direction in wild fruits, nuts and roots. An instance is found in the "Nelumbo" type of water lily flourishing largely in the ponds of the east and central west. The seeds and the tubers of this species are good food, Dr. Gilmore declares, and make good stew when used with meat, particularly beef. Such stew was originally concocted by the Indians, as were many other dishes which, it is said, could be economically adopted today.

"These uses of wild plants are no longer experimental," the investigator says. "We could have learned all about them from the Indians, but we didn't go to them and inquire.

"I have spent a number of years among them trying to learn more of their habits of domestication and mean to continue the work while the older of the tribesmen still live to hand down these lessons."

BONES IN "BLUEBEARD" HOME

Paris Police Say Wife and Children Aided In Alleged Slayer's Crimes.

Paris.—Police officials investigating charges against Henri Landru, the alleged "bluebeard," who is accused of slaying a number of women and destroying their bodies, claim to have found about fifteen pounds of human bones in a house where he lived.

Among the bones was a skull in a good state of preservation. Some of the bones had been cut with a saw, the teeth of which left peculiar marks which were easily recognizable. It is said the saw has been found and that marks made by its teeth coincide with those found on the bone fragments.

Inquiry as to the operations of Landru's wife, says the Eclair, shows that she was a "devoted accomplice" of her husband and "knew of everything he did." It is also charged their children aided in disposing of property secured by Landru in the course of his alleged crimes.

DIET IS UNIONIZED IN SPAIN

Organized Workmen Also Demand Beds With Two Mattresses.

Washington. — Industrial troubles in Spain have the question of diet added to the problems of wages and hours, according to a report at the department of commerce.

Before making a contract to cut a crop of sugar cane, Spanish workmen recently made the following demands:

A daily wage of 10 pesetas ($1.75); three heavy meals—breakfast of eggs and meat, dinner of soup and meat stew, supper of bacon, green vegetables and "gazpacho"; hours of work—from sun to sun, with two hours for siesta, or noon-day nap, forty minutes for each meal, three smoking periods of twenty minutes each and one for thirty minutes and a bed with two mattresses.

Eighty Widows Drawing Pensions for War of 1812

Eighty widows of soldiers of the War of 1812 are still on the government pension rolls, according to the annual report of Secretary of the Interior Lane. Pensioners included 215 survivors of the war with Mexico, and 2,739 widows of soldiers.

Names of 271,391 Civil war veterans are listed. Deaths of Civil war veterans last year numbered 27,703, compared with 30,446 the year before.

Pearls in Oysters.

Spokane, Wash.—Ten pearls from a quart of oysters that cost him 45 cents were taken by one customers of a local fish market, and two pearls were found by another, the dealer reported. He, himself, found one, he said. The pearls are said to range in value from $2 to $10 each.

POPULATION OF SMETHPORT SHOWS LOSS

Washington, June 15.—The population of Smethport, Pa., is 1,568, a decrease since 1910 of 249, or 13.7 per cent.

The decrease in the population of the county seat has caused some little concern at Smethport.

This afternoon a well-known resident there informed the Star-Record that a falling off of 249 was undoubtedly due to the fact that ten years ago the borough had glass making plant which employed many men. Another reason was the transfer of at least two industries to East Smethport. The borough would accordingly feel the loss by such changes in the location of plants.—Star-Record.

HARRY T. MOREY

When not at work on a picture Harry T. Morey is to be found in No. 16, a dressing room which dates back to the early days of his career in the Brooklyn studio of Vitagraph. It was 10 years ago that he occupied this room with Earle Williams. The walls resemble a combination of art museum and rogues' gallery. They are hung with pictures of Morey in various roles, ranging from a policeman, his first part; the crook, Joseph Garson of "Within the Law," to the high financier in "The Gamblers." Recently, he has added Philip Grey in "The Birth of a Soul" and a detective character in "The Flaming Clew."

FARM DWELLERS ASK FOR BOOKS

Announcement of the "Books for Everybody" Movement Brings Letter Flood.

INFORMATIVE WORKS SOUGHT

Requests for Reading Matter Range From Volume on Drainage to Collins' "Book of the Stars."

The announcement of the entrance of the American Library Association upon the "Books for Everybody" movement and still later to its accounts of the activities of the organization along these lines resulted in a widespread appeal from residents of the rural districts of the country for books on farming. Whether the American farmer is simply evidencing his ambition to do a good job better or whether the better crops of his neighbor, who has attended an agricultural college or school, has spurred him on is a matter difficult to determine. But the fact remains the farmer is asking for books. The great majority of American farmers are either without libraries and book service or they are inadequately served.

One of the points which the American Library Association in its "... for Everybody" movement is strongly urging is the extension of the county library system in states where enabling acts have been passed—some twenty-one in number—and the proper legislation in others which have not yet taken the step. The system, with its central library and radiating lines to stations in the remotest sections of the county, assures good books to every man, woman and child who cares to reach out a hand and grasp one.

Letters Show Need of Service.

The American Library Association is not giving its entire attention to the urban dweller, nor is it neglecting the centers of population for the rural districts and communities. It is, however unquestionably eager to create a steady flow of informative reading to rural America. That the need for such service exists and that it is anxiously sought is evidenced in every letter of this nature received by state library commissions and by the A. L. A. A few excerpts have been selected because they seem to express most truly the needs of thousands of others.

When Lydia Carlson, whose farm is beyond Mason, Wis., asked for copies of "Productive Farm Crops," "Productive Vegetable Growing" and "Principles of the Practice of Poultry Raising" she echoed the book needs of her neighbors. Then she revealed the fact that her eyes are not always in the furrows by asking for a copy of Collins' "Book of the Stars."

What Others Desired.

There was a pressing need behind the letter from James Dunn, who lives ten miles from Convent, La., the nearest town, which has a population of only 500 people. He asked for a copy of "Practical Farm Drainage." The task of keeping his acres dry was beyond him. Walter Williams of Osseo, Wis., wanted to know if he could make fuel alcohol from frozen potatoes and spoiled fruits, and if he could, were there any books on the subject. The requests run the whole range of farm operations. Some wish to know how to treat scale, others desire facts on hog raising. Books giving information on crop rotation are in demand.

The American Library Association is raising a $2,000,000 fund to finance the "Books for Everybody" movement which during the next three years will be carried on in co-operation with existing libraries and library agencies. The money is not being raised through the medium of an intensive drive but through the individual efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries.

CORE IN TELEPHONE CABLES

Beetle Causes No End of Trouble to Telephone Companies in California.

Washington.—When telephone girls in California find their wires are "shorted," a bug may be on or in the wire, for California has a wood-boring beetle that goes through wood and also through alloyed substances considerably harder than lead. The beetle has put hundreds of telephones out of commission by boring holes in the cables that carry the wires. Water enters the cables, making wire connections useless until the bored places are found and repaired. The problem of control of this metal-boring beetle is still unsolved, according to the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture, and it will be difficult to find a practical way.

HIGH HEELS CAUSE DEATH

Pittsburgh Woman Mangled by Elevator After Her Shoe Catches in Door.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—High heeled shoes dragged Mrs. C. Steffler, aged forty-two, to a slow death when she was crushed beyond recognition between an elevator cage and the shaft wall in the North Park apartments, No. 204 East North avenue, where she resided.

Mrs. Steffler was hurrying through the hall going to the elevator when John Gibson, the elevator operator, informed her that he would carry her up after he had answered a telephone call. As Mrs. Steffler stepped into the waiting car her high heeled shoes caught between the elevator and the door. In an effort to extricate herself she fell forward, grasping the cable of the cage which started slowly to descend to basement, pinning her between the steel cage and the wall.

GETS HISTORIC TOM-TOM

Oklahoma Society Presented With Property of Geronimo, Famous Apache Chief.

Lawton, Okla.—A tom-tom known to have been constructed and used by the famous Apache chieftain, Geronimo, recently was presented by Frank Harrah to the Oklahoma Historical society.

The tom-tom was given to Harrah by Geronimo in 1909, while the chief was a military prisoner at Fort Sill.

The tom-tom, a circle of rawhide about the size of a dinner plate, is decorated in bright red and green paints in a design symbolic of the compass and is fringed with feathers attached by rawhide thongs.

DOCTOR FLIES TO ICE-BOUND

Airplane Carries Medical Aid to Sick Children on Island in Susquehanna.

Harrisburg, Pa.—An aviator from the Middletown (Pa.) aviation reserve depot took a doctor by airplane to give medical aid to the family of John Pfaumiller, a farmer on Duffy's island, in the Susquehanna, cut off by ice from the shores.

Word reached the depot that three children in the family were ill with pneumonia, and when the machine, piloted by Lieutenant Ray Brown, reached the farm on the island, it was found an infant had died Monday and two others were seriously ill.

SALVATION LASSIES WIN CHILDREN TO A NEW GOSPEL

Crippled limbs bear mute witness to infantile paralysis ravages among New Jersey children to whom the Salvation Army is giving the "milk treatment."

A new gospel is being preached by Salvation Lassies in at least two cities in the United States.

It is a "gospel of clean milk"—and lots of it. School children in Union Hill, N. J., which is just across the Hudson River from New York, and Covington, Ky., are already benefiting from the modern gospel.

Union Hill Salvationists were the first to start the milk crusade, and there 60 quarts of the healthful fluid are dispensed free each day. In this town the ravages of infantile paralysis about two years ago were especially severe, as is known by the number of crippled poor children who benefit from the Army's treatment.

In Covington the crusade is educational as well as charitable in nature and the lassies preach the clean milk gospel with all [illegible] ten's destitute and sick children has long constituted a big part of the Salvation Army's activities. Through milk stations, fresh air farms, seashore homes, nurseries, orphanages, hospitals and with food, clothing, medicines and the like the Salvationists aided almost half a million children in the United States last year. This child-saving work is one of the organization's many non-self-supporting activities which is financed by the once-a-year Home Service Appeal. This year's appeal is scheduled for May 10 to 20.

EARLE WILLIAMS

"Don't change your company," is the advice Earle Williams gives to young screen players, and then he adds, "providing you are with the right company."

Earle Williams is one of the few film players who has never changed his habitation from one studio to another. He commenced his career 12 years ago with the Vitagraph star family and has never strayed from the fold. "The Wolf," visualized from Eugene Walters' famous stage play, and "The Fortune Hunter," from Winchell Smith's play, have been the means of emphasizing Mr. Williams' ability and popular attraction recently.

"Immortals" Tackle Job They Will End in 2020

The holiday season set the French academy back two weeks in the work of revising the French dictionary which, according to the best estimates, will be completed in the year 2020 or 2025.

The two holidays this year happened to fall on Thursday, the only day of the week on which the Forty Immortals assemble.

Academy members began the present revision in 1878, 41 years ago.

It's a mighty good idea to watch how one's neighbors do a thing and profit by their mistakes.

PORT ALLEGANY

The roof of the window glass factory building started to collapse on last Thursday afternoon, compelling a sudden cessation of work and the putting out the fires for the present blowing. The roof did not fall entirely, but settled several feet and then stopped. It will be necessary to tear it down and rebuild a new one. During last winter the roof over the other tank collapsed completely and with the present trouble will compel the rebuilding of nearly the entire plant.

Bernard Buckley, left Sunday for Oklahoma, word having been received that his father, William Buckley had suffered a stroke and was in a serious condition. Mrs. Wm. Buckley was already on her way to Oklahoma when the news reached here, being scheduled to arrive last Sunday. Mr. Buckley's very many friends here hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Snyder have gone to Wellesley College Commencement where their daughter, Olga Leora, is a member of the Senior Class. They will be there until June 10 then visit some places of interest in New England and go to their home on Honnedaga Lake for the summer. Miss Snyder will go on a motor trip to Long Island, spend a week there and be one of a house party at a summer home near Wyomissing. Later she will join her family in the Adirondacks.

Prof. P. D. Womeldorf, though re-elected as principal of the local schools for the coming year, has handed in his resignation, and has accepted a position as supervising principal of the schools at Syracuse, Kans. His many friends here wish him success in his new field next year.

Manley C. Field and Miss E. May Bellows were united in marriage at the home of the bride on Maple street Wednesday evening, Rev. C. E. Odell of the Methodist Church officiating. Their many friend join the Reporter-Argus in extending congratulations and best wishes.

In the absence of a regularly appointed policeman, it has been decided by the borough councilmen to have themselves sworn in, and each of them will have the authority to see that the law is enforced.—Reporter-Argus.
